JOHN'S, SAT WARD, Editor.

THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1842. The Straberts.

Yesterday afternoon, at about 35 minutes past four o'clock, the Steamboat Express, Captain and liberties. Coyle, arrived at the wharf in this city, on lier regular trip from Portland, in 10 hours and 35 minutes, bringing the pamengers from Boston By the Portland. The passengers by the Express, express themselves bighly satisfied with the boat, with her gentlemanly commander, the courteous attentions of the officers generally, and the prompt attendance of the servants.

trip for the season, and was greeted with three times three hearty cheers from the old friends of Capthin Howes to well known to our citizens, from so long having been engaged in commanding the Bangor. The Yelegraph is fitted up in an elegant style with berths to accomodate a large number of passengers. She has two Ladies' cabins one upon the main deck which is light and airy and comfortable, and the other beneath the deck, connecting with the Gentle--men's cabin by folding doors.

The passengers by the Telegraph express themselves highly pleased with the arrangement and accommodations of the boat, and with the care and skill of the Captain, the gentlemanly Numbers thronged the streets - A large process attentions of the officers and all interested with sion was formed, and Goy. Dorr ascended the her management.

The public may be quite sure that both these prudence, and that every effort will be made for their accommodation and comfort. That each boat should have its particular favorites is to be expected. They unquestionably have their praticular merits, and these will be more or less valued according to the different tastes of individuals: So far as this trip is a test, the Express has clearly the most speed, as she came through in something over two hours less time than the Telegraph, as the T. left Portland nearby an hour in advance of the Express.

The Telegraph is a larger boat than the Express; is fumished with stationary and well furnished berths, one hundred and fourteen in the Gentlemen's cabin and thirty-foor in the Ladies' cabins. She can fit up additional fodging accommodations to convene in all one hundred and seventy-five passengers.

But it is said that this being a day route stationary berths are not needed, and that it is only necessary to have a sufficient number of cots to be set up when needed, and of these the Express he an hundred and some over. Of all these matters, however, each person can make up-s judgue of to suit himself.

Both the boats we consider in first rate order both carry passengers for the same sum, fifty cents to Portland and one dollar to Boston. This mate is cheap enough in all conscience, and if any one feels the slightest disposition for travel, he can indulge it at a trifling expense. The public will be well served, and the splendid accommodations now offered, in connection with the low fare, will be likely to tempt vast numbers to move about a little, and see how this funmy old world of ours wags along about these days.

Defeat of Halleck Tustenuggee.

The manœuvering of this Indian chief as displayed in the late Campaign in Florida is justly entitled to the highest praise as a Light Infantry officer, and Col. Worth of the United States army very properly bestows upon him the highest compliments.

In January last, says the Sayannah Republican, Halleck had an engagement with Major Plympton in which be was defeated. This occurred at the head of hawk river. Immediately after this event, Halleck marched due East, or nearly so. till he atrived on the coast leaving a large and distinct trail. Here he was pursued, but he countermarched, dispersing his troops with orders to concentrate on the Ocklawaha. The troops in a arch of him finally struck a trail of one single Indian between the St. Johns and Ocklawsha. This trail was traced to the East -bank of the latter river, and after some exploration, rafts were found, on which the party had crossed. Halleck had wisely concluded that the regulars would not look for a trail on the West shore of this river, and pursuant to this belief he was not cautious about his trails on that side whence his course was traced out till our indefatigable soldiers arrived on the hard, mandy hills not far from the head of the Ocklawaha, where the trail was again lost. The troops in pury it now repaired to Fost Ving quite dishis great of the trail with an Indian guide. They (so the young first say,) and were just enough in quest of the trail with an Indian guide. "It has become my duty to say, that, so soon People of this State, in aid of the charter government, I shall call for that aid, to oppose all such force, which, I am fully authorized will be immediately and most cheerful conder-ed to the service of the People of Rhode Island, from the city of New York and from other places. The contest will then become national, and our State the battle ground of American freedom.

" No firther arrests under the law of pains and Assembly of the People at their May session, will be permitted. I hereby direct the military under their respective officers promptly to prevent the same, and to relieve all who may be arrested under said law."

The parade on the occasion of the Governor's entry into the city is described as quite large steps of the byrouche prepared for him, saluted by three chors from the populace. . "He stated that he had written a letter asking military aid in that city. It was not for 500 though, but for 5000, should the occasion require it, or rather should these be an attempt to march United States troops to this city. His speech was frequently interrupted by cheers, which continued for some time at its conclusion. In conclusion, the Chronicle adds

"We hear that all is quiet. Gov. Dorr stops t the house of Mr. Burrington Anthony, the Sheriff under the same Constitution whereby he claims to be Governor. We presume that the military and citizens will disperse quietly, though we do hear some talk about a guard being placed about Mr. Anthony's house, which 'perhaps the friends of Mr. Dorr may deem necessary.

The contingency which Gov. Dorr has mentioned, may and probably will happen, and he is then in arms against the General government. Can he and his friends hope to succeed in such an undertaking?

THE L. W. REPORTER. May, 1842,

This is a valuable number of an important periodical. In addition to much matter of the usual character, the present number contains a variety of decisions in Bankruptcy, and a list of all the petitions in the Southern District of New York. One of them, a case of much novelty. where the applicant not only wanted to be discharged, but to have the Government pay the expenses, as he had nothing to pay with, and seems not to have been pleased with the idea or earning money for the purpose. The decision was against the application. The speedy method which the Reporter has of giving decisions, and its well esence oha leter for accuracy, while so many decisions of great practical importance are so frequently made in reference to Pankruptcy, must make the work of the highest value to all members of the profession of the law, and to others interested in such matters.

Ur There was a large turn-out of our good people at an early hour, this morning, to witness the departure of the two steam boats, the expected launch, &c. It is said to be a curious fact, illustrative of the desired effects of temperance in Ireland, that the officers employed in the secruiting service in that country, find it difficult, indeed impossible, to obtain recruits in any number. The fact is, that the detestable whickey having been given up, the acasentry have become more sensible, and, therefore, the scarlet fever, or in other words, " soldi-ring" is not now-a-days so prevalent. GENTLEMAN belonging to one of the most ancient and wealthy families of this city, who must be well known to numerous friends, having since the year 1818 up to recently, been bent nearly double, and for several years confined to his bed, has been restored to good health has regained his hatural erect position and has quitted his carriage, and now walks with ease! We believe this is the gentlemen's own description as near as possible, and there is no exaggeration in it. We will give inquirers his address, and doubt not his humane feelings will excuse the liberty, so that any one doubting, may know these facts though he requests his name may not appear in print. Among other similar instances, Mr James G Reynolds, 111 Christie street, has been restored, and will give personal assurances of the facts of his case.
